Warmer Year Ago

The last "warm" day here was Saturday when the maximum temperature was three above freezing. Since that time the mercury has not topped the freezing point. The Saturday night low was 20. Philadelphia, Dec. 19 (AP) — When Frank J. CPL. MECKLEY WAS SLAIN IN IN RED TRAP

Cpl. William L. Meckley, 22, whose death in action in Korea, November 21, was officially reported December 3, died while saving the lives of other soldiers after being ambushed on a volunteer patrol mission.

Word of the manner in which the Hanover soldier met a heroic death has been received by his mother, Mrs. Ruth E. Meckley Miller, Hanover, from her son's platoon sergeant, M. Sgt. Cecil L. Jenkins. Mrs. Miller is the former Ruth Shields, of Gettysburg.

Cpl. Jenkins' letter, written in North Korea, revealed that on November 21 a call was received for a squad from his platoon to contact the Republic of Korea marines and guard an engineer outfit moving to the front.

"Although it wasn't Meckley's squad that was picked to go, he came to me and pleaded to go along," Sgt. Jenkins wrote. "They walked into an ambush, losing two of five jeeps and all four of the trucks."

Meckley, and this is a first-hand report from his squad leader, had a chance to leave on one of the three jeeps that got out, but he would not leave the men who were less fortunate than he. He directed fire and aided the wounded, and in so doing saved the lives of several men. In his numerous trips to save other men, he was critically wounded himself, but still refused aid and made other men get out of that place.

"I know it is sad, but he died fighting for his country, and his friends and I know he went like he wanted to go. You have every right in the world to be the proudest mother that ever lived. His name, and his courage, shall forever live in the hearts of the boys who knew."

Cpl. Meckley, who had joined the navy at the age of seventeen and served during the latter stages of World War II, joined the army July 6, 1949.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 20 (AP) — The State Pardon board today rejected the plea for clemency of Alex Agoston, 42, Columbia county, sentenced to die in the electric chair for murder the week of Jan. 8.

Agoston's counsel, at a hearing yesterday, asked the pardon board to recommend commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. Only a respite by Governor James H. Duff will prevent the execution at Rockview state prison shortly after midnight, Monday, Jan. 8.

SOMERSET, Ky., Dec. 20 (AP) — This city's two largest department stores, bulging with stocks of Christmas merchandise, were destroyed by fire early today. A barber shop and a restaurant also were gutted by the flames. Unofficial estimates of damage ran as high as $1,000,000.

Warriors Nip Delone 30-27

By Staving Off Late Rally

After completely dominating play for the first three periods, the Gettysburg high basketball team fell apart in the final period but managed to stagger through to a 30-27 triumph over Delone Catholic here Tuesday evening.

The Warriors gave their finest performance of the season in the first half and left the floor with a convincing 18-9 lead. However, it appeared the Warriors were too self-satisfied and their let-down in the last period almost proved fatal.

Gettysburg got off to a 5-0 lead in the first two minutes on a goal by Saunders, who was a fine performer under the boards all evening, a foul by Swope, and a goal by Swope. Mumma netted a layup after four minutes for Delone. Steinberger converted a foul and a side shot by Breunel knotted the score after five and one-half minutes. A foul and one-handed stab by Saunders and a free toss by Ford gave Gettysburg a 9-5 advantage at the quarter.

Limited To Four

Shaffer opened the second period with a foul for the visitors, their lone tally of the entire period. Meanwhile Gettysburg ran its margin to 16-6 at half time on a pair of goals each by Skinner and Williams and foul tosses by Harrel and Saunders.

A long shot by J. Smith after 3:30 of the third period gave Delone its first field goal since the middle of the first period and just before the period ended Skinner landed a close toss to make the count 26-16 going into the final frame.

The Warriors seemed content with their margin but suddenly found themselves in trouble when Brenner, Smith and Brenner again landed goals by that order. Skinner again linked the lead on a shot from underneath but Mumma connected on a long stab. Harrel landed a pair of free tosses and the best the Squipes could do were a foul toss by Steinberger and a pair by Smith.

The Warrior scrubs also chalked up their second triumph in three cuttings by taking the preliminary in a hard fought game 25-18. Coach Ross Sachs' outfit led the most of the way by a close margin.

On Thursday the Forney-men journey to York for a return engagement with the powerful Bearcats. Delone will be host to Waynesboro Friday night.

Unbeaten Cornell Here Tonight; Hare May Start

There will probably be one change in the Gettysburg college starting lineup tonight when the Bullet cagers meet the powerful, unbeaten Cornell dribblers on the college floor at 8 o'clock.

George Hare, whose scintillating play beneath the boards against the tall LaSalle outfit Monday night was a feature for the locals, is expected to be among the starters. Hare has earned his starting job through two recent outstanding performances. His scrap has offset much of the advantage of opponents' height.

Cornell, making its first invasion here in history, has an unbeaten team and numbers among its victims Yale, Colgate, Clarkson, Bucknell and Rider. The Big Red outfit is being touted as the probable Eastern Collegiate League titlist.

Inasmuch as college students are now on vacation, all seats, with the exception of the reserved east stand, will be available to the public.

BROOKLYN IS TOP FIELDING NATIONAL CLUB

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Brooklyn's Dodgers certainly can't trace the loss of the 1930 National league pennant to their fielding. It was the best in the league.

Not only did the Dodgers own the highest team defensive figure, an official .979, but the club boasted three individual leaders. Gil Hodges topped all first basemen with a .994 mark. Jackie Robinson showed his heels to all second basemen with .986 and Billy Cox set the standard for third basemen with .957. Only those who appeared in 100 or more games are considered.

Other Brooklyn fielding standouts were Roy Campanella who led the catchers with .983 putouts and 848 total chances, and Carl Furillo, who paced all outfielders with 18 assists.

Marty Marion, newly appointed playing manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, owned the best percentage among the shortstops. The 34-year-old veteran in his 11th season with the Redbirds, had 978 showing in only 40,000 on hand.

Wally Westlake, not particularly known for his standout defensive feats, was a surprise leader among the picketmen. The Pittsburgh Pirate slugger fielded his position at a .991 gait. He committed only three errors in 336 chances spanning 123 games.

Westrum Sets Pace

Probably the most remarkable fielding feat of the season was achieved by Wally Westrum, sturdy New York Giants catcher. The durable sophomore was guilty of only one miscue while working in 139 games, to set a league fielding mark of .999. That displaced the old record of .998 set by Earl Grace of the 1932 Pirates. Westrum had 21 assists, participated in 21 double plays, both high among the receivers, and handled 680 total chances.

In all, nine records were broken or tied. Hodges established a double play mark by first basemen by participating in 159 twin killings. Robinson did the same for second basemen with his 133 DP's. Hank Thompson of the Giants set a DP for third basemen with 43. The previous highs were set by first baseman Frank McCormick of the 1930 Cincinnati Reds, second baseman Tony Cuccinello of the '31 Reds and third baseman Pie Traynor of the '25 Pirates.

Al (Red) Schoenlein of the Cards played through 57 consecutive games, from May 30 until the ninth inning of the game on July 30, without committing an error. He handled 320 chances cleanly. That bettered his own previous standard of 44 games and 285 chances in 1948 and '49.

The New Oxford reserves also dropped their sixth straight in the preliminary game 33-30.

COLLEGE GRID ATTENDANCE IS OFF SLIGHTLY

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—College football attendance held up surprisingly well in 1950, dropping off only 3.5 per cent a game from the all-time high of last year according to an Associated Press survey. Big league baseball was off 14 per cent.

The east and far west where television takes its deepest bite suffered severe setbacks but a sharp increase in the southwest held up the overall average. The midwest was up slightly and the south dipped about 3 per cent, close to the national trend.

Returns from 29 schools, covering 448 home games showed today that the major collegians played to average crowds of 26,678 last fall as compared to 27,651 in 1949. The figures ranged from 36,744 in the midwest and 35,868 in the southwest to 19,807 in the east.

The southwest average was up 11 per cent, the midwest 2 per cent and the others dropped from the south's 3 per cent to 10 per cent in the east and 12 per cent in the far west.

Blame Television

Poor weather, particularly the late November snow and wind storms, hurt the gate in the midwest and east but most schools were inclined to blame television competition.

In the southwest live telecasts are permitted only when a game is an annual sellout in advance. Many of the midwest schools, with the exception of Notre Dame, did not telecast.

Michigan, as usual, led the nation in attendance with 501,522 for six games at its 97,000-seat stadium. But the Wolverines were hurt at the gate, declining from their 563,363 of a year ago — roughly a drop of 10,000 per game.

Ohio State was second in the nation with 368,021 and would have had more except for the blizzard that almost obliterated the Michigan game. Nov. 25. They sold 82,500 seats and only 50,503 showed up.

California had another good year with 358,000 paying to see their unbeaten champs in seven home games. But Stanford and Southern California took terrific lassings at the gate. Rain ruined Stanford's chances of a sellout for the Army game with only 40,000 on hand.

Other Brooklyn fielding standouts were Roy Campanella who led the catchers with .983 putouts and 848 total chances, and Carl Furillo, who paced all outfielders with 18 assists.

BROOKLYN IS TOP FIELDING NATIONAL CLUB

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Brooklyn's Dodgers certainly can't trace the loss of the 1950 National league pennant to their fielding. It was the best in the league.

Not only did the Dodgers own the highest team defensive figure, an official '979, but the club boasted three individual leaders. Gil Hodges topped all first basemen with a .944 mark. Jackie Robinson showed his heels to all second basemen with .986 and Billy Cox set the standard for third basemen with .957. Only those who appeared in 100 or more games are considered.

Michigan, as usual, led the nation in attendance with 501,522 for six games at its 97,000-seat stadium. But the Wolverines were hurt at the gate, declining from their 563,363 of a year ago—roughly a drop of 10,000 per game.

Ohio State was second in the nation with 368,021 and would have had more except for the blizzard that almost obliterated the Michigan game. Nov. 25. They sold 82,500 seats and only 50,503 showed up.

Califonia had another good year with 358,000 paying to see their unbeaten champs in seven home games. But Stanford and Southern California took terrific lassings at the gate. Rain ruined Stanford's chances of a sellout for the Army game with only 40,000 on hand.

Other Brooklyn fielding standouts were Roy Campanella who led the catchers with 633 putouts and 848 total chances, and Carl Furillo, who paced all outfielders with 18 assists.

Marty Marion, newly appointed playing manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, owned the best percentage among the shortstops. The 34-year-old veteran, in his 11th season with the Redbirds, had a .978 showing in 101 games.

Wally Westlake, not particularly known for his standout defensive feats, was a surprise leader among the picketmen. The Pittsburgh Pirate slugger fielded his position at a .991 gait. He committed only three errors in 336 chances spanning 123 games.

Westrum Sets Pace

Probably the most remarkable fielding feat of the season was achieved by Wally Westrum, sturdy New York Giants catcher. The durable sophomore was guilty of only one miscue while working in 139 games, to set a league fielding mark of .999. That displaced the old record of .998 set by Earl Grace of the 1932 Pirates. Westrum had 21 assists, participated in 21 double plays, both high among the receivers, and handled 680 total chances.

In all, nine records were broken, or tied. Hodges established a double play mark by first basemen by participating in 150 twin killings. Robinson did the same for second basemen with his 133 DP's. Hank Thompson of the Giants set a DP for third basemen with 43. The previous highs were set by first baseman Frank McCormick of the 1933 Cincinnati Reds, second baseman Tony Cuccinello of the 31 Reds and third baseman Pie Traynor of the '25 Pirates.

Al (Red) Schoendienst of the Cards played through 57 consecutive games, from May 30 until the ninth inning of the game on July 30, without committing an error. He handled 320 chances cleanly. That bettered his own previous standards of 44 games and 285 chances in 1948 and '49.

Tommy Glaviano of the Cards equaled a third baseman's mark by making three errors in the ninth inning of a May 18 game against Brooklyn. Willie Jones of the Philadelphia Phils tied a third base-man's record by participating in 157 games. The Phils' Gran Hammer's 157 contests tied the shortstops' mark.

The Cards and Phils were the only clubs to execute triple plays. The Dodgers' 183 double plays topped runner-up New York's total by two.

COLLEGE GRID ATTENDANCE IS OFF SLIGHTLY

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—College football attendance held up surprisingly well in 1950, dropping off only 3.5 per cent a game from the all-time high of last year according to an Associated Press survey. Big league baseball was off 14 per cent.

The east and far west where television takes its deepest bite suffered severe setbacks but a sharp increase in the southwest held up the overall average. The midwest was up slightly and the south dipped about 3 per cent, close to the national trend.

Cornell, making its first invasion here in history, has an unbeaten team and numbers among its victims Yale, Colgate, Clarkson, Bucknell and Rider.

CPL. MECKLEY WAS SLAIN IN IN RED TRAP

Cpl. William L. Meckley, 22, whose death in action in Korea, November 21, was officially reported December 3, died while saving the lives of other soldiers after being ambushed on a volunteer patrol mission.

Word of the manner in which the Hanover soldier met a heroic death has been received by his mother, Mrs. Ruth E. Meckley Miller, Hanover, from her son's platoon sergeant, M. Sgt. Cecil L. Jenkins. Mrs. Miller is the former Ruth Shields, of Gettysburg.

Cpl. Jenkins' letter, written in North Korea, revealed that on November 21 a call was received for a squad from his platoon to contact the Republic of Korea marines and guard an engineer outfit moving to the front.

"Although it wasn't Meckley's squad that was picked to go, he came to me and pleaded to go along," Sgt. Jenkins wrote. "They walked into an ambush, losing two of five jeeps and all four of the trucks."

Meckley, and this is a first-hand report from his squad leader, had a chance to leave on one of the three jeeps that got out, but he would not leave the men who were less fortunate than he. He directed fire and aided the wounded, and in so doing saved the lives of several men. In his numerous trips to save other men, he was critically wounded himself, but still refused aid and made other men get out of that place.

"I know it is sad, but he died fighting for his country, and his friends and I know he went like he wanted to go. You have every right in the world to be the proudest mother that ever lived. His name, and his courage, shall forever live in the hearts of the boys who knew."

Cpl. Meckley, who had joined the navy at the age of seventeen and served during the latter stages of World War II, joined the army July 6, 1949.

Somerset, Ky., Dec. 20 (AP) — This city's two largest department stores, bulging with stocks of Christmas merchandise, were destroyed by fire early today. A barber shop and a restaurant also were gutted by the flames. Unofficial estimates of damage ran as high as $1,000,000.

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP) — President Truman today signed legislation extending existing rent controls to March 31, 1951. The 90-day extension was voted by Congress at Mr. Truman's request. The idea is to give the incoming congress time to review the national housing picture in the light of changed conditions created by the defense emergency.

Without the interim extension, rent controls would have expired December 31 except in those communities acting to retain them until June 30.

Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 20 (AP) — West Germans made it clear to the Big Three today that they want more than they have been offered, in return for taking part in an international military organization to protect the western world.

CHINESE REDS' SILENCE BLOCKS UN COMMISSION

Lake Success, Dec. 20 (AP) — The United Nations cease-fire commission for Korea was bogged down today by Communists.

There still was no answer to a direct appeal sent Peiping last Saturday, asking for a meeting to talk over a truce in Korea as a step to Far East peace.

Negotiators Sir Benegal N. Rau of India, Canadian Foreign Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, and U.N. Assembly President Nasrullah Entezam, after two meetings yesterday, said they are "considering what further steps can be taken." They may hold another meeting today.

Appeal To Peiping

The commission sent its appeal directly to Peiping after Red Chinese envoys, here to discuss the case of Formosa, said they were not empowered to talk about the Korean cease-fire proposal.

The U.N. Assembly committee meanwhile is standing by for a quick call if there are developments on the cease fire question.

Peiping's envoys left New York last night by plane for London and Moscow. Wu Hsia-Chuan, head of the mission, issued a statement wishing the American people a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and charging that "Anglo-American ruling circles" rejected a Chinese Communist plan for peace in the Far East.

Russia's U.N. Ambassador Jacob A. Malik and two aides, and Polish and Czechoslovak delegates saw Wu and his party off.

London, Dec. 20 (AP) — The Chinese Communist delegation which presented its government's case to the United Nations arrived here by plane from Lake Success today, enroute home to Peiping.

The head of the eight-member delegation, Gen. Wu Hsia-Chuan, was greeted at the airport by Soviet Ambassador to London George Zarubin and the Romanian Czechoslovak and Polish Ambassadors.

The Chinese gave no statements or interviews to reporters. Prague is the next stop on their journey home, by way of Moscow.

The group had 54 pieces of luggage on their arrival here. Going to New York they had only 16. They were taking home radio sets, kitchenware, cameras, electric equipment, clothing and other items bought in New York.

Tokyo, Dec. 20 (AP) — The Red Korean army, shattered by United Nations forces in September, today was reported being rebuilt into a formidable fighting force of up to 15 divisions—perhaps more.

General MacArthur's headquarters said the new estimate was made after a close study of a variety of clues. These included a revival of North Korean frontline activities, air reconnaissance and "rather complete reports" from prisoners.

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP) — Negotiators kept White House lights blazing until 3:30 this morning in a third all-night session to settle the railroad labor dispute.

Dr. John R. Steelman, Presidential assistant, told reporters "considerable progress" was made toward reaching a settlement. He is steering the negotiations.

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP) — House Democratic leader McCormick today suggested a general manufacturers' excise tax as a means of gathering additional billions to put the defense effort on a pay-as-you-go basis.

This was his answer to newsmen's questions on how Congress can raise the $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 needed to balance out the defense budget.

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP) — A fellow Republican today sharply criticized the defense recommendations of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and said Dewey would do well to leave such matters to professional soldiers.

Rep. Paul Shafer (R.-Mich.) repudiated the New York governor's recently broadcast mobilization proposals as "manifestly absurd" and the "opening gun in his 1952 nomination campaign" for president.

He will be able to do so with the firm promise of President Truman that he is going to keep his job despite Republican demands for his ouster.

Mr. Truman told a news conference yesterday that Acheson has put "great talents" into the fight against communism, and that "communism—not our own country—would be served by losing him."

While congressional Democrats likewise came to Acheson's support, Republicans divided. Senators Taft of Ohio, chairman of the GOP Policy committee, and Wherry of Nebraska, the party floor leader, led a faction which declared there will be no unity on foreign policy so long as Acheson remains at the head of the State Department.

This GOP group appeared to outnumber the others—including such senators as Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) the assistant floor leader, Morse of Oregon and Aiken of Vermont—which urged party members to accept the President's decision and get behind a bipartisan program.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP) — Operations of Chicago's biggest policy wheels, which each year take an estimated $60,000,000 in bets ranging upward from a dime, were told to the U.S. Senate crime committee last night.

The huge income and big profits from the wheels—numbers racket—were disclosed as committee investigators questioned two of the so-called policy kings of the South Side Negro district.

The corn figure is 25,573,000 bushels more than the 3,105,436,000 bushels forecast a month ago. It compared with last year's revised estimate of 3,379,436,000 bushels for the ten-year 1949-48 average of 2,900,932,000 bushels.

The wheat estimate is 16,686,000 the ten-year average of 1,031,312,000 bushels forecast a month ago. It compared with last year's revised estimate of 1,141,188,000 bushels and the ten-year average of 1,031,312,000.

The wheat crop was made up of 750,666,000 bushels of winter wheat, 36,064,000 bushels of Durum wheat and 240,025,000 bushels of spring wheat other than Durum.

An Adam hat official said that night that Pearson's view and policies do not represent his company.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE READING HABIT

There is no pleasure so lasting and so mentally and spiritually stimulating as the habit of reading. Especially if that reading is selective. Books once were men and women, so when reading their books we contact minds.

Anthony Trollope, himself the author of many great books, once said: "The habit of reading is the only one I know in which there is no alloy. It lasts when all other pleasures fade. It will be there to support you when all other resources are gone. It will be present to you when the energies of your body have fallen away from you. It will make your hours pleasant to you as long as you live."

Books become friends. The characters in them live with you. The reading of any good book can always be a relaxation. The greatest of this earth have turned to reading to ease the stress of responsibility. The late John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) had insomnia and could not sleep as he would wish. So he took those hours and used them for the writing of his books—and he wrote an enormous number, some hundred—and all good.

When human companionship fails, or is lacking, if we have cultivated the reading habit, we can turn to our favorites and gain consolation or inspiration. We can call for the written words of those long gone from earthly contact, and their authors live again for us. The reading habit not only keeps us informed, but it increases our knowledge of the world and its people. We read of characters in a book that become our friends, so real are many of them described.

Learn of the books that one reads and you get a near idea of the sort of person that one is. Hugh Walpole once said that "reading shows which way a child is going more clearly than anything else in the world." That, too, may be said of us all who delight in books. Worthwhile reading builds character and gives solace to the mind and ecstasy to the soul. With books about us we are always in the midst of friends.

Tricky Treatment For Basement Wall

One need not be too clever with a paint brush to create a tricky wall treatment in the basement recreation room. Just do some telephone-pad doodling with black paint on pasted blue, green or yellow walls.

Follow a theme, if you can, such as painting representations of cards, dice, bottles and glasses if the room is used primarily for grown-up games; books with clever humorous titles, a few tic-tac-toe markings and kindergarten-type lettering if teen agers use the room.

The youngsters probably will have some good ideas themselves so give them a free rein with the paint brush.

DIVIDING THE BATH

A small partition of glass block can be used to divide the bathroom into units so that several members of the family may use the room simultaneously.

When Vern Stephens and Walt Dropo tied for the major league runs batted in championship in 1950, it was the second straight year two Boston Red Sox finished in a dead-lock for that crown.

GEN. MACARTHUR IMPOSES RIGHT OF CENSORSHIP

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Dec 20 (AP) — General MacArthur's headquarters today imposed the right of censorship over all news of Korean military operations without calling it an act of censorship.

A memorandum from MacArthur's public information office, Col. M. P. Echols, said news dispatches and photographs must be submitted in Korea or Japan for security screening and clearance by military authorities before being sent out. The brief announcement did not specify any penalty for evasion or violation.

The order was effective immediately. The Tokyo headquarters press advisory division immediately became swamped with copy. The division up to then had operated solely as a guiding influence on news involving security considerations.

Early Plan Didn't Work

From the beginning of the Korean War, June 26, correspondents were placed on their honor not to disclose information that might help the Reds. This voluntary system didn't always work. Some so-called news 'beats' resulted from rather loose individual interpretations by war correspondents on what constituted security.

Since early in the campaign some of the press had asked for the im-

Washington, Dec 20 (AP) — Three local rent advisor to rent in Camp Atterbury, Ind., are reported willing to recommend imposition of position of formal censorship—not only to provide real security on unimportant military moves but to give all correspondents an even break on big stories bearing on marginal security considerations.

Army authorities in Tokyo have contended they lacked the manpower to enforce such censorship and that it would be ineffective without similar regulations in Washington and other world capitals.

Voluntary news blackouts pre-valued, correspondents generally folent controls in their counties but only if prices and wages are frozen too.

The boards are in Scott, Brown and Jennings counties. The housing predictor's office said no action is being taken to establish rent ceilings in the counties since "ceneral price and wage index have not been imposed."

There are nine other counties in the Atterbury area in which housing expedited. The Woods also has named rent advisory boards recently. No recommendations at all have come from these nine boards.

Col. James A. Murphy, commander of Camp Atterbury, asked more than two months ago that rent controls be put on within a

REBUFFED GM JOINS IN NEW PRICE TALKS

Detroit, Dec. 20 (AP)—General Motors—rebuffed by the government in its plea for a softening of the auto price freeze—joins today with other auto manufacturers and the United Auto Workers (CIO) to discuss the price rollback with the government.

GM, the nation's No. 1 car producer, offered yesterday to resume delivery of 1951 models to dealers if the Economic Stabilization Agency modified its price rollback order.

The government rejected the request, for the time being at least. An ESA spokesman commented to newsmen, "who is dictating the price control of our economy—GM or this agency?"

At the same time, the government had a pat on the back for GM's competitor, the Ford Motor company, for complying with the order issued Saturday cutting back prices to December 1 levels.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE READING HABIT

There is no pleasure so lasting and so mentally and spiritually stimulating as the habit of reading. Especially if that reading is selective. Books once were men and women, so when reading their books we contact minds.

Anthony Trollope, himself the author of many great books, once said: "The habit of reading is the only one I know in which there is no alloy. It lasts when all other pleasures fade. It will be there to support you when all other resources are gone. It will be present to you when the energies of your body have fallen away from you. It will make your hours pleasant to you as long as you live."

Books become friends. The characters in them live with you. The reading of any good book can always be a relaxation. The greatest of this earth have turned to reading to ease the stress of responsibility. The late John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) had insomnia and could not sleep as he would wish. So he took those hours and used them for the writing of his books—and he wrote an enormous number, some hundred—and all good.

When human companionship fails, or is lacking, if we have cultivated the reading habit, we can turn to our favorites and gain consolation or inspiration. We can call for the written words of those long gone from earthly contact, and their authors live again for us. The reading habit not only keeps us informed, but it increases our knowledge of the world and its people. We read of characters in a book that become our friends, so real are many of them described.

Learn of the books that one reads and you get a new idea of the sort of person that one is. Hugh Walpole once said that "reading shows which way a child is going more clearly than anything else in the world." That, too, may be said of us all who delight in books. Worthwhile reading builds character and gives solace to the mind and ecstasy to the soul. With books about us we are always in the midst of friends.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Book With A Soul."

ABOUT VAIN WISHES

I do not write this to complain,

But just to tell the truth about it.

I've wished for many a thing in vain,

But I have got along without it.

The splendid things I've wished I had.

Would many be if I should list them,

But life without them wasn't bad.

The fact is I have never missed them.

For pride some millionaire reveals

In costly tackle I've done wishing.

With ordinary rods and reels

I've had my share of luck out fishing.

Though I've the love for fancy stuff

I've had to let my wallet guide me,

But truly I've done well enough

Without the things that were denied me.

My watch gives me the time of day,

Though not the kind a thief would look for.

The meals I've had are those, I'd say,

That wives their husbands daily cook for.

Some things I've wished I had I've seen,

When those who owned them raved about them,

But still no happier I'd have been.

Then I have been so far without them.

Colonel Mitchell Stripped Of Pay, Rank and Duty: Washington, Dec. 18.—A verdict of guilty on all specifications and the general charge, coupled with sentence of suspension for five years from "rank, command and duty" in the army, was found last night against Colonel William Mitchell by the court-martial which had conducted his trial for insubordination since October 28.

The "military record of the accused during the World War" evidently saved him from a more severe sentence, the court announcing that the finding was "lenient."

Colonel Mitchell, standing as the trial was announced, smiled. Mrs. Mitchell was at his side.

News Of Interest To Home Builders--

Tricky Treatment For Basement Wall

One need not be too clever with a paint brush to create a tricky wall treatment in the basement recreation room. Just do some telephone-pad doodling with black paint on painted blue, green or yellow walls.

Follow a theme, if you can, such as painting representations of cards, dice, bottles and glasses if the room is used primarily for grown-up games; books with clever humorous titles; a few tic-tac-toe markings and kindergarten-type lettering if teenagers use the room.

The youngsters probably will have some good ideas themselves so give them a free rein with the paint brush.

DIVIDING THE BATH

A small partition of glass block can be used to divide the bathroom into units so that several members of the family may use the room simultaneously.

When Vern Stephens and Walt Dromo tied for the major league runs batted in championship in 1950, it was the second straight year two Boston Red Sox finished in a deadlock for that crown.

When Vern Stephens and Walt Dromo tied for the major league runs batted in championship in 1950, it was the second straight year two Boston Red Sox finished in a deadlock for that crown.

The outside of The Atlantic City presents a compact and modest appearance. Either wood shingles or clapboards can be used as exterior wall covering. The dormers back and front mean there will be small slanting walls upstairs, and the ell at the back on the right adds to an otherwise plain look.

The picture window in the front wall, flanked by small windows that open, is balanced by a regular window with shutters on the other side. Note that shutters are provided on the front door, in keeping with all the windows on the house.

The roof projects over the front door, sheltering it somewhat from the rain, and over the picture window. This prevents the hot summer sun from shining directly in. Louvers at either end of the attic provide ventilation. House is fully insulated.

The front door opens into a hallway which is actually part of the 13 by 19-foot living room. The open stairway to the second floor is opposite and at the left is the door to one of downstairs bedrooms. The living room is so designed that there is plenty of wall space. Yer ample light is provided by the side window and the three windows on the front.

Glass panes in the door also are an aid in brightening the room. Homemakers will find the picture window will be a great help in decorating since the view outdoors will seem part of the room. The smaller windows to the side will admit ventilation.

For economy reasons a fireplace has been omitted but one could be built into the side wall.

The bedroom at the left has an additional closet in the front hall, behind the stair well. This could easily and quickly be converted to a built-in dresser with daylight ideally provided by the nearby window.

Complete plans and specifications for "The Atlantic City" and other houses in this series are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 18, The Gettysburg Times, and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

A door in the back wall gives access to a short hall. The kitchen and breakfast nook are next to the living room at one end of this hall and at the other end are two bedrooms. The bath is between the kitchen and rear bedroom. Doors to the cellar stairs and the linen closet open into the hall.

The modern kitchen measures 12 by 10 feet. The stove is to the left inside the swing door and the refrigerator is on the front inside wall.

Underneath the window on the back wall is the sink in the center of a counter and overhead and underneath are cupboards. Also on the back wall is another window and the glazed back door.

Too much planing is not advisable, however, since allowance should be made for shrinking as well as swelling. If the wood has swollen because of dampness, all edges of the door should be given a coat of paint or varnish, depending on what the finish is.

Large entrance doors frequently sag because hinges are not large enough, or because there are only two hinges instead of three.

The bedroom at the end of the hall is an ideal room for children. Measuring 12 by 8 feet, 6 inches it has a large closet in the inside.

CREATION OF NEW EUROPEAN ARMY MOVE TO PEACE

BY DWIGHT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The creation of the twelve Atlantic Pact powers to create million-man army—the United Germans—for defense of Western Europe under General Eisenhower is a momentous development.

The consensus of military experts is that such preparedness is the only logical strategy with which to meet the Communist threat against the democracies. Western Europe is the business against the Red wave from the East, and its loss not only would give Moscow control of Europe but would render the Western Hemisphere vulnerable.

In this sense the United States is acting partly in self-defense. As between Europe and Asia, the protection of the former is far more important to the security of the Western world.

However, this doesn't mean Asia could be written off the books of the West. Japan and the strategic islands of the Pacific must be protected.

And, in this connection the great danger America and her Allies have to guard against is being drawn into a major war with a country like China and bled white.

On a showdown, Western Europe is the vital theater of the moment. The urgency of the European situation was emphasized by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson in a statement to the Atlantic Pact foreign ministers in Brussels yesterday. He declared the military forces of those countries are "not adequate and must be built up with the utmost speed."

The efficacy of the Atlantic Pact defense force depends in major degree on participation of Western Germany, which is the strategic heart of central Europe. And the German government's agreement must still be obtained.

It has been left to America, Britain and France to work out this delicate matter with the Bonn government. However, hopes are high that the Germans will agree, since their troops would be permitted to participate as a unit, although they wouldn't be allowed to create a separate such command.

Germany's participation has, of course, been a matter of heated argument among the Western Allies, since both France and Britain at first disliked the idea of creating any fresh military strength in a country which had precipitated two world wars. However, horse sense finally won the day, as it was perfectly obvious Germany's inclusion was an essential to success.

Dangerous Crisis

The Atlantic Pact powers are to start pooling their military forces at once. The information in Brussels was that the United States will have at least five full divisions in Europe within a year.

General Eisenhower stated in St.

Louis yesterday that he plans to take over his new job in Europe about the first of the New Year. His chief of staff will be Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, deputy for plans and operations of the U.S. Army.

When General Ike was asked whether he was hopeful that peace could be maintained he said:

"Well, of course, I'm hopeful. But it's not going to be easy and it's not going to be quick."

That's the sort of straight answer which inspires confidence. The general realizes what all else should receive by this time—that we are in the midst of a most dangerous crisis.

As General Ike says, the purpose of the international force is to maintain peace. We can only join with him in hoping that it succeeds, because we are not hunting trouble, though we intend to be ready if it hunts us.

Santa and the COWBOY

By LUCRECE HUGDINS

CHAPTER 15
THE TRAP

Oh, but the Jindians were angry when they saw Bucky come riding home with the tail of Herman the Wozzle.

"It's some trick," thundered Chief Hurricane. "My son, Lonesome Boy, shoot the Wozzle."

But Lonesome Boy shook his head. "Him shoot best," said the Jindian pointing at Bucky. "And he saved my life."

Then Santa spoke sternly. "Can a Jindian keep his word? You promised to leave us in peace if our cowboy was able to outride and out shoot you. He has done both. Now go!"

The Jindians gathered in a knot and grumbled and beat their fists on their chests. For an awful moment Santa thought they would not go. The Santa Land workers looked on worriedly—not daring to move or shout their joy at Bucky's triumph. Only Tweedle-knees refused to be quiet.

He dashed into the nearest workshop, took up hammer and nails and began banging away at a doll house.

"Get in here, lazy ones!" he hollered. "With two days left until Christmas, there's a mountain of work here to be done. Get to it and let those Jindians sneak off where they belong."

Chief Hurricane's face turned dark with rage. Then he signaled to his tribe. They picked up their belongings, got on their horses, and slowly rode out of Santa Land.

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" shouted the dwarfs and fairies. They lifted the little cowboy on their shoulders and carried him round and round Santa's cottage.

"Come," cried Timothy Dwarf. "Sing us your cowboy song!"

Bucky grinned with pleasure. Never had he been so happy! "Yippi ai kai-yi! Oh, Yippi ai kai-yi!" he sang.

The little folk took it up. Dewey and Marlowe and Pudding played like they were prancing horses and galloped before the crowd. Suddenly there was an astonishing sound heard above all the other noise. The workers turned in amazement to see Patrick Tweedleknives leaning from his workshop window, waving his hammer, and singing "Yippi ai kai-yi" to the skies.

Even Santa had to laugh at the sight. But Santa was not happy. Presently he took Bucky into his cottage and told Mrs. Claus to feed him. "What would you like?" asked Mrs. Claus with a twinkle in her eyes. "Soup, oatmeal, broccoli?"

Bucky looked at a great chocolate meringue pie Mrs. Claus had baked. His eyes grew large and his mouth watered. "Please, ma'am," he said, "I'd like a piece of pie."

And she put the whole pie in front of the boy and he dug into it exactly as a cowboy should.

When he had finished Bucky went to Santa's knee. "Why are you still so sad? Isn't everything all right now?"

"It's Dasher," said Santa. "The Jindians took him off and the deer won't fly without him. I do not know how I shall make my trip around the world."

Bucky was quiet and thoughtful. He heard the busy sawing and hammering and bustling about in the workshops that meant the toys were at last being finished. The Jindians had gone and would never bother Santa Land again. But what was the good if Santa could not travel around the world on Christmas night?

"Don't be sad," said Bucky quietly. "I will try to find Dasher. He must be at the Jindian camp."

Santa shook his head. "Twice, you have succeeded, but a third time would be too many. I feel something awful would happen. You must not go."

Bucky did not intend to disobey. He went down to the stables merely to hunt for tracks the way a cowboy does when an animal has disappeared.

But the Jindians had not all gone away. Before they left Santa Land they intended to take with them this cowboy who had beaten them at riding and shooting. They could not let the boy live who had shamed them. So they had hid at Santa Land and waited to find Bucky alone.

When the little cowboy came whistling into the barn three great Jindians threw a blanket over his head and tied him up with ropes. Then they flung him over the back of the leader's horse and sped away.

And no one in all that land heard Bucky when he cried for help.

Cutback Notices Issued on Steel

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Notices are going out this week to steel consumers of drastic cutbacks in their February allotments of steel, according to the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly. The cutbacks vary widely with different products and different companies.

Quotas for flat-rolled products such as plates, sheets and strip are being slashed most deeply, the magazine says, some as much as 50 per cent.

With plate quotas being hit hardest of all, Iron Age says: "Several companies already are planning to

Then Santa spoke sternly... "You promised to leave us in peace"..."Now go!"

PRICE FREEZE VOLUNTARY AT PRESENT TIME

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. (AP)—The government will have a time keeping down prices and living costs if businessmen get greedy and chisel.

The government has enough machinery to crack down on some big industry but not enough, for instance, to tackle all the stores and small factories.

Last night the Economic Stabilization Administration (ESA) asked everyone to freeze—voluntarily—the price on what he sells.

But no one can be jailed for cheating and raising prices so long as ESA only asks business people to freeze their own prices voluntarily.

If ESA had "ordered" a freeze, then cheating could be punished by a jail sentence.

Although ESA under law has the authority to "order" a freeze, it isn't in a position now to order price controls nationwide.

Some businessmen will honestly feel, for one reason or another connected with their costs, that they have to raise prices to keep on making a fair profit.

If the government demands proof that the increases were justified, and they can show it, they'll be in the clear and their price increase will be allowed although every price increase puts a dent in the whole price control effort.

Of course, if everybody heeded ESA and prices stayed indefinitely where they are now and no other economic forces interfered, there never would be need for the government to slap a general price control "order" on the whole country.

That "order" seems sure to come when ESA is able to carry it out.

New Oxford

New Oxford—Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, Painted Post, N. Y., formerly of this place, have returned to their home after making a recent trip to this section.

The infant son of Bernard and Elizabeth Weaver Moore, born November 29, has been named Michael Andrew.

It asked them not to raise prices any further and, if they have raised them since December 1 without good reasons set out by ESA, then to roll them back to what they were on December 1.

Suppose some big industry hereafter ignores this request and hikes its prices. What then?

If ESA finds out, as it will, and curtail plate allotments for February by as much as 60 per cent. If the petroleum industry is allowed even a substantial part of the 11,900,000 tons of steel they are asking plate consumers will be hit even harder."

The magazine said in order to fill plate requirements many mills now producing sheet and strip would have to switch to plate production. And that, the magazine adds, would cause deeper cutbacks in sheet and strip.

The annual Christmas celebration for children of this vicinity by the local Lions club will be given free on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Earl theatre where juvenile movies will be shown, followed by a treat to be furnished all children present.

Santa and the COWBOY

By LUCRECE HUDGINS

CHAPTER 15

THE TRAP

Oh, but the Jindians were angry when they saw Bucky come riding home with the tail of Herman the Wozze.

"It's some trick," thundered Chief Hurricane. "My son, Lonesome Boy, shot the Wozze."

But Lonesome Boy shook his head. "Him shoot best," said the Jindian pointing at Bucky. "And he saved my life."

Then Santa spoke sternly. "Can a Jindian keep his word? You promised to leave us in peace if our cowboy was able to outride and out shoot you. He has done both. Now go!"

The Jindians gathered in a knot and grumbled and beat their fists on their chests. For an awful moment Santa thought they would not go. The Santa Land workers looked on worriedly—not daring to move or shout their joy at Bucky's triumph. Only Tweedle-knees refused to be quiet.

He dashed into the nearest workshop, took up hammer and nails and began banging away at a doll house.

"Get in here, lazy ones!" he hollered. "With two days left until Christmas, there's a mountain of work here to be done. Get to it and let those Jindians sneak off where they belong."

Chief Hurricane's face turned black with rage. Then he signaled to his tribe. They picked up their belongings, got on their horses, and slowly rode out of Santa Land.

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" shouted the dwarfs and fairies. They lifted the little cowboy on their shoulders and carried him round and round Santa's cottage.

"Come," cried Timothy Dwarf. "Sing us your cowboy song!"

Bucky grinned with pleasure. Never had he been so happy!

"Yippi a ki-ay! Oh, Yippi a ki-ay!" he sang.

The little folk took it up. Dewey and Marlowe and Pudding played like they were prancing horses and galloped before the crowd. Suddenly there was an astonishing sound heard above all the other noise. The workers turned in amazement to see Patrick Tweedleknives leaning from his workshop window, waving his hammer, and singing "Yippi a ki-ay" to the skies.

Even Santa had to laugh at the sight. But Santa was not happy. Presently he took Bucky into his cottage and told Mrs. Claus to feed him. "What would you like?" asked Mrs. Claus with a twinkle in her eyes. "Soup, oatmeal, broccoli?"

Bucky looked at a great chocolate meringue pie Mrs. Claus had baked. His eyes grew large and his mouth watered. "Please ma'am," he said, "I'd like a piece of pie."

And she put the whole pie in front of the boy and he dug into it exactly as a cowboy should.

When he had finished Bucky went to Santa's knee. "Why are you still so sad? Isn't everything all right now?"

"It's Dasher," said Santa. "The Jindians took him off and the deer won't fly without him. I do not know how, I shall make my trip around the world."

Bucky was quiet and thoughtful. He heard the busy sawing and hammering and bustling about in the workshops that meant the toys were at last being finished. The Jindians had gone and would never bother Santa Land again. But what was the good if Santa could not travel around the world on Christmas night?

"Don't be sad," said Bucky quietly. "I will try to find Dasher. He must be at the Jindian camp."

Santa shook his head. "Twice you have succeeded but a third time would be too many. I feel something awful would happen. You must not go."

Bucky did not intend to disobey. He went down to the stables merely to hunt for tracks the way a cowboy does when an animal has disappeared.

But the Jindians had not all gone away. Before they left Santa Land they intended to take with them this cowboy who had beaten them at riding and shooting. They could not let the boy live who had shamed them. So they had hid at Santa Land and waited to find Bucky alone.

When the little cowboy came whistling into the barn three great Jindians threw a blanket over his head and tied him up with ropes. Then they flung him over the back of the leader's horse and sped away.

And no one in all that land heard Bucky when he cried for help.

Cutback Notices Issued On Steel

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Notices are going out this week to steel consumers of drastic cutbacks in their February allotments of steel, according to the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly. The cutbacks vary widely with different products and different companies.

Quotas for flat-rolled products such as plates, sheets and strip are being slashed most deeply, the magazine says, some as much as 50 per cent.

With plate quotas being hit hardest of all, Iron Age says: "Several companies already are planning to

Then Santa spoke sternly... "You promised to leave us in peace" ... "Now go!"

PRICE FREEZE VOLUNTARY AT PRESENT TIME

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—The government will have a time keeping down prices and living costs if businessmen get greedy and chisel.

The government has enough machinery to crack down on some big industry but not enough, for instance, to tackle all the stores and small factories.

Last night the Economic Stabilization Administration (ESA) asked everyone to freeze—voluntarily—the price on what he sells.

But no one can be jailed for cheating and raising prices so long as ESA only asks business people to freeze their own prices voluntarily.

If ESA had "ordered" a freeze, then cheating could be punished by a jail sentence.

Although ESA under law has the authority to "order" a freeze, it isn't in a position now to order price controls nationwide.

Staff Of Only 150

It doesn't have a staff large enough to police prices over the whole country. Its staff numbers perhaps 150.

In World War II when OPA ordered price controls and policed them, it had 60,000 paid employees and 200,000 volunteer workers around the country.

That "order" seems sure to come when ESA is able to carry it out.

thinks the industry was making enough profit without the increase, then it can "order" that industry to roll back its prices.

Up To Individuals

ESA people say that their staff, small as it is, is still large enough to handle an industry problem for, while there may be a great many firms in an industry, they all more or less handle the same goods.

The automobile manufacturers are an example of an industry ESA last week told them to roll back their recent price increases.

But what of the thousands of small storekeepers and factories around the country? As for them, ESA can only ask them to "let their conscience be their guide."

Some businessmen will honestly feel, for one reason or another connected with their costs, that they have to raise prices to keep on making a fair profit.

If the government demands proof that the increases were justified, and they can show it, they'll be in the clear and their price increase will be allowed although every price increase puts a dent in the whole price control effort.

Of course, if everybody heeded ESA and prices stayed indefinitely where they are now and no other economic forces interfered, there never would be need for the government to slap a general price control "order" on the whole country.

That "order" seems sure to come when ESA is able to carry it out.

New Oxford

New Oxford—Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, Painted Post, N. Y., formerly of this place, have returned to their home after making a recent trip to this section.

The infant son of Bernard and Elizabeth Weaver Moore, born November 30, has been named Michael Andrew.

It asked them not to raise prices any further and, if they have raised them since December 1 without good reason set out by ESA, then to roll them back to what they were on December 1.

Suppose some big industry here-after ignores this request and hikes its prices. What will it do?

If ESA finds out, as it will, and curtail plate allotments for February by as much as 60 per cent. If the petroleum industry is allowed even a substantial part of the 11,900,000 tons of steel they are asking plate consumers will be hit even harder."

The magazine said in order to fill plate requirements many mills now producing sheet and strip would have to switch to plate production. And that, the magazine adds, would cause deeper cutbacks in sheet and strip.

Richard Bennett and son, near Various classes of the First Lutheran church school held their annual Christmas parties at the church rooms during the past week.

Littlestown

DR. NEELY, YORK, ROTARY SPEAKER

Rev. Dr. Gerald Neely, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, York, was the speaker at the annual Christmas party and Ladies' Night observed by the Littlestown Rotary club on Tuesday evening at 6:15 p.m. in the social hall of Redeemer's Evangelical and Reformed church. The turkey banquet was served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church to the 95 Rotarians, Rotarians and guests. Mrs. Edna Geisselman and Mrs. H. S. Crouse.

The program included vocal selections by a mixed octet from the Littlestown Junior-Senior high school, composed of Marie Basehoar, Dolores Rae Reindollar, Betty Yealy, Helen Wintrode, Allen Shanebrook, Richard Selby, Ferree LeFever and Lewis Motter. The octet sang "Jingle Bells," "A Dutch Carol," "Bless This House" and "O Holy Night" with Allen Shanebrook doing the solo part, as an encore, accompanied on the piano by Lois Ann Feeser, who served as pianist throughout the evening. A brass octet composed of Allen Shanebrook, Richard Selby, Gary Waitman, Dean Bankert, Evelyn Dickinson, Myrtle Good, Brenda Hess and Helen Rebert, students at the Littlestown Junior-Senior high school, played the following selections, "Joy to the World," "O Sanktissima," "Away in a Manger" and "Silent Night."

The Rev. Mr. Neely was introduced by Frank E. Basehoar, chairman of the program committee, who served as toastmaster. The Rev. Mr. Neely spoke on "The Spirit of Christmas." He emphasized that "giving something personal and something of ourselves will instill in our community a better spirit." The program closed with the group singing "Silent Night." Potted poinsettias were presented to each Rotarianne.

Luther W. Ritter, secretary of the local club, passed out cigars to announce the birth of a son on Sunday. The tables and social hall were elaborately decorated for the occasion in keeping with the Christmas season. The program committee, composed of Frank E. Basehoar, chairman; L. Robert Snyder, Paul R. Snyder, Theron W. Spangler, Dr. Joseph R. Riden, Roy D. Knouse and Clyde Crouse, was in charge of the Christmas party.

The regular weekly meeting of Rotary will be held next Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. at Schott's hotel. The International Service committee, composed of Luther D. Snyder, chairman; Arthur E. Bair, Frank Krook, Edward H. Lester, Richard A. Little, Edward T. Richardson, Sr., and P. Emory Weaver, will be in charge of the program.

PROMISE WAGE CEILING PLAN IN NEAR FUTURE

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—The government today promised a voluntary wage ceiling formula "as soon as possible" to match the nationwide honor system price control newly put into effect for all industry.

The Economic Stabilization Agency summoned into a meeting here the management and union leaders of more than 1,000,000 auto workers for talks which may provide a clue to the coming restraints on all labor.

The agency meantime hoped for a wave of voluntary price rollbacks—mostly at the mill, mine and factory level—in accordance with its price-profits formula announced last month.

Standards "More Rigorous" But if compliance does not come voluntarily, ESA Administrator Alan Valentine warned, compulsory price ceilings will be clamped on and the standards may be "more rigorous" than those now set forth.

There was ample indication that ESA considers the voluntary formula a stop-gap, if it restrains inflation until March, the infant agency may be ready to enforce mandatory controls wherever needed.

Rowland Jones, Jr., president of the American Retail Federation, criticized the voluntary "freeze" announcement as "vague in some aspects" and said it raised "serious questions of theory and policy which must await further investigation and clarification."

Jones said in a statement that some of the suggested principles, if they became part of a mandatory price control system, "could raise obstacles to the end-objective of increased production and efficient distribution."

Charges By GOP Senators

The federation is made up of 55 state and national trade associations which list more than 300,000 retail stores among their members.

Two Republican senators, meanwhile, charged that stabilization officials ignored the intent of Congress in taking price control action without parallel action on wages at the same time.

The senators, Bricker of Ohio and Clegg of Indiana, said Congress made it plain during debate on the Defense Production Act earlier this year that price and wage action should be taken simultaneously if taken at all.

Bricker and Clegg likewise expressed doubt that a voluntary price freeze would do much good. They and a Democrat, Chairman Maybank, (S.C.), of the banking committee which helped write the act, called in separate interviews for broad, compulsory wage-price controls now.

Living Costs At Peak The call for a voluntary price freeze came as the cost-of-living index appeared heading for a new all-time high.

Latest figures by the U. S. Bureau of Labor statistics showed wholesale prices for the week ending December 12 were 10.2 per cent higher than just before the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

It appeared certain that prices will stay above the pre-Korea level even if there is a rollback to the level of December 1.

The new "fair pricing standards" call for a rollback of any price increase made by a factory or mine since December 1, if the increase brings the company's net profits above the average dollar profits before taxes, in the years 1946 through 1949.

"Services" Covered

In the case of storekeepers and wholesalers, the gross profit margin on any item may not be increased above the June, 1950, level if this would make the dealer's total profits bigger than his 1946-49 average.

"Service" as well as goods are covered. Laundries, restaurants, barbershops, shoe shine parlors and

U.S. CROPS FOR 1950 GO OVER EXPECTATIONS

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington Dec. 20 (AP) — Crop production this year has turned out to be the third largest on record to put the nation in a good position to meet most demands a war might bring.

A month ago it was rated only fourth largest.

The agriculture department's final report of the year said the crop volume exceeds the average of the previous eight years, which it described as the most productive period in American agriculture.

Weather Hurt Cotton

Only in the case of cotton did production disappoint. Poor weather and insects helped cut the crop sharply below last year and below the government's production goal. Because of this, the government has restricted exports to protect domestic needs.

The department said a prolonged fall season for maturing and harvesting crops helped improve the quantity of many crops. Hence, the total volume turned out to be a third only to those of 1948 and 1949, instead of fourth, as predicted last month, behind 1946, 1948 and 1949.

Added to carryover supplies from previous years, this year's harvest will provide adequate quantities of most crops to meet expected civilian, military and export needs as well as to leave desirable reserves for future emergencies.

Setting '51 Goals

But even as it was reporting this year's abundance, the department was setting 1951 production targets calling for the largest output of crops in history. Back of this call was a desire to get prepared in event of war.

A few crops contributed record volumes to the large 1950 total—soy beans, grain sorghum, sugar beets and red clover seed. The corn crop of 3,131,000,000 bushels slightly exceeds recent forecasts and is the fourth largest of record.

Others in this class of very large crops are oats, hay, rice, potatoes, tobacco and cranberries. Larger than average crops of flaxseed, peanuts, sugar cane, hops, apples, pears, cherries, citrus fruits and truck crops were harvested.

Only slightly below average were wheat, barley, dry beans, sweet potatoes, maple products and pecans. Cotton and cottonseed, peaches and apricots were relatively small crops, while rye, dry peas, cowpeas, broom corn and sugar cane syrup were among those with very small volumes.

Per Acre Yield Good

The department said farmers produced the big volume despite reductions in acreage of several important crops and a growing season that had many unfavorable aspects. The composite yield per acre was the second best of record.

Harrisburg, Dec. 20 (AP) — A Swedish truck driver has been exonerated of blame in a November 27 auto accident which took the lives of two Lancaster hunters.

A Dauphin county coroner's jury yesterday ruled that Hollis A. Bruce was exonerated and ruled the accident "unavoidable due to the icy condition of the highway."

The accident, which happened near Clark's Ferry bridge north of here, cost the lives of Robert E. Owens, 32, of Lancaster, and John W. Martin, 55, former Lancaster resident living in Philadelphia.

Bruce told Coroner S. J. Roberts and the six-man jury he pulled off the road in an attempt to miss the skidding car. He said the truck scraped a guard rail for several hundred feet.

State policeman Joseph Miller testified the hunters' car turned completely around and crashed into the front of the oncoming truck in the early morning. Miller said both vehicles were traveling "about 25 miles per hour."

Four other Lancaster county hunters, following the Owens car, testified that Bruce pulled off the highway "as much as possible" in trying to avoid the crash.

Hustler's Sunday school class of Redeemer's Evangelical and Reformed church, taught by Theron W. Spangler, was held on Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the church social hall. A luncheon was enjoyed with 36 members and one guest present. The meeting opened with the group singing, "O Come All Ye Faithful," accompanied on the piano by Miss Louise Dutcher. The scripture was read and prayer was offered by the pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds. Another Christmas carol was sung by the group with Miss Dutcher as accompanist. The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Hazel Hess. Reports were given by secretary, Miss Louise Dutcher and treasurer, Mrs. George Dehoff. Plans were discussed by the class concerning the serving of the Littlestown Lions club for the annual Christmas banquet and Ladies' Night on Thursday at 6:30 o'clock in the church social hall, which they will serve.

The program of the evening included readings by members of the class telling how Christmas is celebrated in other lands. Mrs. Lloyd read "Christmas Keeping" and "Christmas Bells" by Henry Van Dyke. The guest package was presented by Mrs. Richard Hartlaub and received by Miss Helen Myers. Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to the class and "secret sisters" were revealed and names were drawn for "secret sisters" next year. Refreshments were served by the committee comprised of Mrs. Lloyd L. Crouse, chairman; Mrs. Richard Hartlaub, Miss Louise Dutcher and Mrs. Hazel Hess, in charge for the evening. The next meeting of the Hustler's will be held Monday, January 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the church social hall. Those serving on the entertainment and refreshment committee for the January meeting are Mrs. Ralph Staley, chairman, Mrs. Monroe Staley and Mrs. Frank E. Reynolds.

U.S. CROPS FOR 1950 GO OVER EXPECTATIONS

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington Dec. 20 (AP)—Crop production this year has turned out to be the third largest on record to put the nation in a good position to meet most demands a war might bring.

A month ago it was rated only fourth largest.

The agriculture department's final report of the year said the crop volume exceeds the average of the previous eight years, which it described as the most productive period in American agriculture.

Weather Hurt Cotton

Only in the case of cotton did production disappoint. Poor weather and insects helped cut the crop sharply below last year and below the government's production goal. Because of this, the government has restricted exports to protect domestic needs.

The department said a prolonged fall season for maturing and harvesting crops helped improve the quantity of many crops. Hence, the total volume turned out to be a third only to those of 1948 and 1949, instead of fourth, as predicted last month, behind 1946, 1948 and 1949.

Added to carryover supplies from previous years, this year's harvest will provide adequate quantities of most crops to meet expected civilian, military and export needs as well as to leave desirable reserves for future emergencies.

Setting '51 Goals

But even as it was reporting this year's abundance, the department was setting 1951 production targets calling for the largest output of crops in history. Back of this call was a desire to get prepared in event of war.

A few crops contributed record volumes to the large 1950 total—soy beans, grain sorghum, sugar beets and red clover seed. The corn crop of 3,131,000,000 bushels slightly exceeds recent forecasts and is the fourth largest of record.

Others in this class of very large crops are oats, hay, rice, potatoes, tobacco and cranberries. Larger than average crops of flaxseed, peanuts, sugar cane, hops, apples, pears, cherries, citrus fruits and truck crops were harvested.

Only slightly below average were wheat, barley, dry beans, sweet potatoes, maple products and pecans. Cotton and cottonseed, peaches and apricots were relatively small crops, while rye, dry peas, cowpeas, broom corn and sugar cane syrup were among those with very small volumes.

Per Acre Yield Good

The department said farmers produced the big volume despite reductions in acreage of several important crops and a growing season that had many unfavorable aspects. The composite yield per acre was the second best of record.

Harvested acreages of the 52 principal crops amounted to about 341,000,000 acres, the smallest total since 1942. It is nearly 16,000,000 acres less than the relatively large 1949 total.

Production of grains has been exceeded only three times—by two to three per cent in 1946, 1948 and 1949. Likewise, the production of oil seeds—peanuts, cottonseed, soy beans and flaxseed—was the third largest on record, only six per cent less than last year's record.

EMPLOYMENT IS UP IN PENNA.

Philadelphia, Dec. 20 (AP) — Employment, wages and working hours were on the upgrade in Pennsylvania and Delaware last month, the federal reserve bank of Philadelphia reports. Gains were in the durable goods lines, non-durables showing little change.

The bank said yesterday all three labor indicators registered big increases over November, 1949, when heavy goods industries were beginning to recover from steel and coal strikes.

From October to November of this year, the number of production workers in Pennsylvania increased one per cent, to 1,195,000. Total weekly wage payments rose two per cent, reaching $72,168,000. Total weekly man hours advanced one per cent, and hourly earnings went up about two cents, to an average of $1.48. Average weekly earnings reached a new high of $60.39, with the average work week at 41 hours.

The report said some 19 per cent more persons were employed in this state last month than in November a year ago. Weekly payrolls were 41 per cent higher than in November, 1949, and working time was up 28 per cent.

Mrs. Claire Cohen, mother of two, was shot to death in the residential Oak Lane section. Today's shooting was in the opposite end of the city, nearly 5 miles from the Cohen home. Mrs. Cohen was killed and several of the others wounded by 22 caliber bullets.

Philadelphia, Dec. 20 (AP) — A man was mysteriously wounded by shotgun fire early today, police said, while he stood talking with friends on a South Philadelphia street.

Philadelphia, Dec. 20 (AP) —A special federal committee has received court authorization to investigate last November's election in the third congressional district where

Rep. Hardie Scott, Republican, was re-elected by a majority of 925 votes.

Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr.,

signed an order in Common Pleas court yesterday permitting a check of voter assistance records in the district. The action came a day after a complaint charging fraud was filed in Washington with Rep. Mary T. Norton (D-N.J.), chairman of a committee to investigate campaign expenditures for the house of representatives.

The complaint was filed in behalf of Maurice S. Osser, defeated Democratic candidate.

Representatives of the committee previously had asked Morton Witkin, head of the board of county commissioners, to open the records in five wards to them. Witkin said, however, he was not sure he had authority to release the records and sought the advice of the jurist.

Judge Gordon granted the committee's request following a conference in his chambers.

The order specifically permits investigators or attorneys for the committee to delve into the records of 19 divisions. Osser has charged fraud was perpetuated in nearly all these divisions.
